ASSISTANT
Graham Greene On Way With Visa Exception

SAIGON, Indo-China, Feb 9.—British Novelist Graham Greene left by air today for Hong Kong en route to the United States for a short visit.

To grant him a visa the State Department made a rare exception to a law barring all former Reds from the United States.

Mr. Greene, a Catholic convert, had said he once was a member of the Communist Party, but only for a brief time as a youthful prank while he was a university student.

APR 14, 1959
The American consul at Saigon, Indo-China, is being authorized to grant a visa permitting that Graham Greene, British author, to enter the United States, State Department announced.

Department Press Officer McDermott said the action was authorized by the Attorney General under a provision in the 1918 Immigration Act which permits him to make exceptions to the act.

Greene's application had been held up for two weeks because he noted when he applied that he once was a member of the Communist Party.

State Department officials said inquiry developed that he joined the party for a very brief period in his early youth as a college student and paid "28 cents in dues." They said his action was in the nature of a "college prank."
